THE DAWBARN EDUCATION AWARDS

Purpose:

In 1997, H. Dunlop “Buz” Dawbarn established a fund to improve education in his local community by providing cash awards to individuals who have most successfully:

- Inspired,
- Encouraged,
- And fostered learning in young people below the college level.

He had a particular interest in public school education, and because of high teen pregnancy rates, an interest in effective mentoring and tutoring to encourage young women to remain and succeed in school. Along with exceptional teachers, some of the best educators are guidance counselors, coaches, secretaries, administrators, custodians, volunteers, bus drivers, mentors, parents, community leaders, and others.

Eligibility Guidelines:

Awards may be made to any individual* who demonstrates success in fulfilling the purpose of the awards. Nominations may be made by any person, including supervisors, colleagues or other citizens in the community knowledgeable about the individual’s contribution to the education of public school students in Staunton, Waynesboro and/or Augusta County.

- At least four awards will be made to individuals presently employed as regular classroom teachers of pre-school, elementary or secondary students in the public schools in the community.
- The remaining awards will be made to other individuals including, without limitation, teachers, school aides, parents, administrators, coaches, mentors, school bus drivers, volunteers, business people, civic club members, church workers, agency workers, or any other person who are currently making a positive difference in the lives and education of young people in the public school system below the college level. Also, because of the pervasive, negative effect of the teenage pregnancy rate in the region, it is hoped that one or more of the recipients of these awards will be individuals who, by effective mentoring and training, are encouraging young women to remain and succeed in school.
- Individuals may be nominated and receive awards in consecutive years, but may not receive more than one award each year.
- Self-nomination and nominations by immediate family members is not permitted.

Within the guidelines of the purpose of the awards, a selection committee will review all nominations and identify those individuals most deserving of recognition for the kinds of abilities, characteristics and behaviors described in the stated criteria.

Nominations will not be considered unless the all materials (nomination form, essay, and two letters of recommendation) are either received or postmarked by the due date. Please contact Christiana Shields, Grants Manager, at 540-213-2150 or cshields@communityfoundationcbr.org with any questions.

 Members of the Community Foundation Board of Directors, staff, Dawbarn Awards Selection Committee and their immediate families are NOT eligible for nomination or awards.*
